MAINE GOES

DEMOCRATIC

Democrat's 11st Governor And Four Congressmen

MAY HAVE LEGISLATURE

Portland, Me., Sept. 13.—Maine went Democratic to-day. It elected Frederick W. Plaisted, of Augusta, a Democrat, as Governor; upset the hitherto solid Republican congressional delegation in at least two and possibly all four of the districts and to the surprise of the political leaders, Democratic as well as Republican, the returns late tonight indicated the possibility that the next State Legislature will be Democratic. The Senate will surely have a Democratic majority. The House complexion is in doubt.

Returns from all but forty-eight of the election districts of the state showed a plurality for Plaisted for Governor of $300.

The missing districts are nearly all in remote parts of Aroostook county and in outlying islands along the coast.

TRIUMPHANT

TOBINSPORT

Takes An Interesting Game Of Base-ball From Hardinsburg And One From Cannelton

In a hotly contested Saturday afternoon on the Pumpkin Roller ball across the Ohio the Hardinsburg Base-Ball team went down in defeat to the tune of 5 to 3. The pumpkin Rollers played their same old game on the home lot and when a battle ball would hit the ground they knew where it would hit next and were there and as a consequence, the winner was thrown out. It would have been Hardinsburg's game probably as Schleimer, their pitcher struck out ten men but did not have any support.

The game Sunday between the Cannelton team and the small Pumpkin Roller team resulted in a victory to the Tobinsport boys. The score was 6 to 1.

The Race For Governor.

Our readers will recall without much trouble our often expressed determination not to take active partisan part between candidates for democratic nomination, or do we intend now to do so but there being so many peculiar situations developed and so many extraordinary things done, we feel that our readers are entitled to know what is going on.

The race for the nomination is now between Wm. Addison of Harrison county; Ben Johnson, of Nelson county; W. O. Head, of Louisville; John K. Hendrick, of McCracken, and ex-Governor McCreary, of Madison county, and was proceeding in a most satisfactory manner until the Veterans McCreary came into the race as a compromise candidate, but instead of bringing peace he has raised a row.

Coming as the special entry of ex-Governor Beckham, Mr. McCreary's entry has brought forth the following statement, which we publish to show our readers what is thought of his candidacy:

"Ex-Senator McCreary has announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for Governor of Kentucky, notwithstanding the fact that only a few weeks ago he said he would go no further than accept the nomination if it were given to him. He based this attitude upon the ground that forty years in office was enough to ask of the party. More than this, when he was defeated for a re-nomination as United States Senator by Beckham—when he himself realized that his political service was at an end in the ranks of the Democratic party, he bolted and tried to be elected United States Senator over Beckham, who had defeated him for the nomination."

Everybody in Kentucky remembers how two years ago, McCreary sought to be nominated in the primary; and everybody remembers how he remained a candidate before the Legislature, and how many times he got bolting Democrats to vote for him upon ballots when the votes gotten by him would have elected Beckham; and everybody remembers that McCreary continued to run, coupled with Bradley, until Beckham was defeated; and everybody remembers that it is a speech made by Beckham at a banquet at Frankfort, just after his defeat, that he (Beckham) said:

"My opponent (McCreary) in the primary bolted my nomination and aided in my defeat."

This speech was made on March 13, 1908.

Besides this, everybody remembers that Beckham charged in many speeches to be made in the campaign between him and McCreary, that McCreary was the candidate of the whisky ring. Now comes Beckham and Percy Haley to urge McCreary's nomination for Governor. Is this because "bolting" the Democratic ticket is less offensive to them since they themselves have become "bolters"?

Let us not, in passing, fail to remark upon another Beckham change of front in his opinions as conditions changed. He and the lamented Goebel went into office as the result of a popular uprising against the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company. Beckham went so far as to lay at the door of that company a large part of the damning conspiracy by which Goebel was assassinated. Let us not forget that Beckham was elected office under those conditions, and that he came out of office, and is now the

SCHOOL OPENS

With Enthusiasm On The Part of Teachers, Pupils And Parents—Large Enrollment.

The opening of the Cloverport Graded and High Schools Monday morning was one of great encouragement to the teachers. A large attendance of pupils and their parents were present.

Rev. Dillon, Rev. Farmer, Marion Weatherhat, Mayor Barry, V. G. Babage, Julius Nolte, Wm. Pate and W. G. Hardaway were the men who had the interest of the school at heart and showed by their presence that they intended to do all in their power for the good of the institution.

The new rooms are splendid; the lower one will be occupied by the pupils of Miss Eunice Jennings and the upper by Prof. Tanner's classes. Prof. McCoy, Miss Hendricks, Miss Wroe and Miss Mitchell have the other rooms which are clean, cool and far more comfortable than ever before.

Two hundred and thirty pupils were enrolled.

School Notice

The Public School in the Cloverport Graded Common School District No. 1, school gives us the attendance and Sept. 1910. The new addition to the school building is nearing completion, and with it there will be ample room for the accommodation of all white children of school age in the district.

The Board of Trustees earnestly urges all parents and guardians in the district who have children between the ages of six and twenty years, the importance of their co-operation with us in having one of the best schools we have ever had, by having a full attendance as is possible to have.

Encourage your children to go to school; give us the attendance and your support and we will see that you have a school that any district would be proud of.

Heretofore the practice of a number of scholars being excused at 11:30 in the morning for the purpose of carrying dinner to school has been a source of great annoyance to the whole school, and besides it makes it almost impossible for those so excused to keep up with their grades and to overcome this, the board has decided on the following hours for opening and dismissing:

Opening 8:30 a. m.; noon recess, 11:30 a. m. to 1:00 p. m.; dismissal, 4:00 p. m. These hours will give all ample time who have to carry dinners; and the different teachers have been instructed to accept no excuses during the regular school hours for this purpose or any other in their judgment not justifiable.

Special attention is called to Sec. 1531a, Ky. Statutes, which requires all children between the age of seven and fourteen years, not being physically disabled, to attend school in the district during each term. Heretofore this district has not had sufficient room to enforce this law, but this year having ample room, the board will be liable to fine if they do not enforce, and each parent or guardian is also liable for each offense in case they fail to send their children in accordance to the law under the above section.

The Board hopes to not have to enforce in a single case, but with this warning, any parent or guardian having a child between the ages named found negligent, will have to abide by the law, which, it is the Board's intention to enforce to the letter.

John A. Barry, Chairman.
Marion Weatherbolt, Secretary
Board of Trustees, Cloverport Graded Common School District No. 1.

As Many a Cloverport Reader Knows Too Well.

When the kidneys are sick, Nature tells you all about it. The urine is nature's calendar. Infrequent or too frequent action; Any urinary trouble tells of kidney illness.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure all kidney ills.

People in this vicinity testify to this. R. G. Pendleton, Owensboro, Ky., says: "I suffered severely from disordered kidneys, pains and lameness in my back and frequent headaches. There was also a stiffness in my neck and the kidney secretions were unnatural and irregular in passage. I could hardly work and felt tired nearly all the time. I at last procured a box of Doan's Kidney Pills and while I have not taken them strictly according to directions, they have given me great relief. Doan's Kidney Pills have my highest endorsement."

IMPRESSIONS

Of An Old Timer.—Rev. S. C. Bates Writes of His Visit To Breckridge This Summer.

Dear Mr. Babbage:—Having reached home after such a delightful visit to the old home, I think I will ask you, through your valuable columns, to convey a few thoughts to my friends. It has been a good many years since I have spent as long a time in the county and I have never enjoyed a visit more thoroughly than I did this one. There were some sad things. Some of the old friends are gone. Dr. Newsom, John Keith and my step-father, Samuel Wuffett, had always been there when I made my visits. The men of their generation are not many now. A. R. Fisher is the only man in the same business that he was in when I left Cloverport in 1872. I spent a longer time in the old home than I had since I left it a boy. The old house never looked so well as it does now, and the kindness shown me by John Jennings and his family makes me understand why Breckenridge County has always been famous for its good homes, and its generous hospitality.

I had a picture made of the old home, which I hope to keep as long as I live. And I started a movement that I hope will result in keeping the family burying ground in better condition. The two best improved farms of my boyhood memory were those of my grandfather, Ben Bates, and of Mr. John Hardin. Both have fallen into disrepair as to be scarcely recognized, but many other places have been improved in appearance.

The Masonic Barbecue was a delight. I had not been to any large gathering in the old town since the old fair on the hill, which can only be remembered by the oldest inhabitants. The barbecue was a success in every way, especially in the feature that appealed to me, that of bringing together old friends. I met boyhood companions whom I had not met for years, and may never meet again. It was worth the cost of the trip to see two such splendid old people as Uncle Willis Neill and his wife. They have certainly learned how to grow old gracefully, respected and loved by all who know them.

I have not often had a real vacation, but I feel already a longing to get back for another summer's rest, meeting the old friends, walking over the hills and catching the bass and bachelor out of Clover Creek.

Sincerely Yours,
S. C. Bates,
Marietta, Ohio, Sept. 6, 1910.

BIG Prices For Mules

At Baughman's big sale of mules in Lincoln county last week, all records were broken in prices paid for mules. A sucking mule colt at its mother's side brought $965. Mr. Baughman's three year old horse mule, "Roman Nose" brought $395. A mare mule brought $350. The total sum says the Interior Journal, of the Baughman sale was $20,000.

These sales ought to be encouraging to mule raisers in this county. What is done in Lincoln can be done in Breckenridge.

By Theodore Roosevelt

Mendacious Journalism

Reprinted from an article by Theodore Roosevelt in The Outlook, by special arrangement with The Outlook, of which Theodore Roosevelt is Contributing Editor. Copyright 1917 by The Outlook Company. All Rights Reserved.

In the New York Evening Post of Friday, August 26, there appeared in an editorial article the following statement:

"I will make the corporations come to time," shouted Roosevelt to the mob. But did he not really mean that he would make them come down with the cash to elect him, as he did before? For a man with Mr. Roosevelt's proved record it is simply disgusting bunting for him to rant about the corporations upon whose treasuries he fawned when he was president and wanted their money for his campaign. Does he think that nobody has a memory which goes back to the life insurance investigations, and that everybody has forgotten the $50,000 taken from widows and orphans and added to Theodore Roosevelt's political corruption fund? Did he not take his check from the beef trust and glad to get it? And now he is going to make the corporations come to time? One can have respect for a sincere radical, for an honest fanatic, for an agitator or leveler who believes that he is doing God's will; but it is hard to be patient with a man who talks big but acts mean, whose eye is always to the main chance politically, and who lets no friendship, no generosity, no principle, no moral scruple stand for a moment between himself and the goal upon which he has set his overmastering ambition.

"This champion of purity, this warrior for political virtue, is the man who was for years, when in political life, hand in glove with the worst political corruptionists of his day; who toadied to Platt, who praised Quay, who paid court to Hanna; under him as president Aldrich rose to the height of his power, always on good terms with Roosevelt; it was Roosevelt who, in 1906, wrote an open letter urging the reelection of Speaker Cannon, against whom mutterings had then begun to arise; it was Roosevelt who asked Harriman to come to the White House secretly, who took his money to buy votes in New York, and who afterwards wrote to 'My Dear Sherman'—yes, the same Sherman—reviling the capitalist to whom he had previously written saying: 'You and I are practical men.'"

The Evening Post is not in itself sufficiently important to warrant an answer, but as representing a class whose hostility it is necessary to reckon in any genuine movement for decent government, it is worth while to speak of it. There are plenty of wealthy people in this country, and of intellectual hangers-on of wealthy people, who are delighted to engage in any movement for reform which does not touch the wickedness of certain great corporations and of certain men of great wealth. People of this class will be in favor of any aesthetic movement; they will favor any movement against the small grafting politician, against the grafting labor leader, or any man of that stamp; but they cannot be trusted! The minute that the reform assumes sufficient dimensions to jeopardize so much of the established order of things as gives an unfair and improper advantage to the great corporation, and to those directly and indirectly responsive to its wishes and dependent upon it. The Evening Post and papers of the same kind, and the people whose views they represent, would favor attacking a gang of small bosses who wish to control the Republican party; but they would, as the Evening Post has shown, far rather see these small bosses win than see a movement triumph which aims not merely at the overthrow of the small political boss, but at depriving the corporation of its improper influence over politics, depriving the man of wealth of any advantage beyond that which belongs to him as a simple American citizen. They would be against corporations only after such corporations had been caught in the crudest kind of criminality.

I have never for one moment counted upon the support of the Evening Post or of those whom it represents in the effort for cleanliness and decency within the Republican party, because the Evening Post would support such a movement only on condition that it was not part of a larger movement for the betterment of social conditions. But this is not all. In the struggle for honest politics there is no more a place for a liar than there is for the thief, and in a movement designed to put an end to the dominion of the thief and the liar, good can be derived from the assistance of the liar. Of course objection will be made to my use of this language. My answer is that I am using it merely scientifically and descriptively, and because no other terms express the facts with the necessary precision. In the article in which the Evening Post comes to the defense of those in present control of the Republican party in New York state, whom it has affected to oppose in the past, the Evening Post through whatever editor personally wrote the article, practiced every known form of mendacity.

Probably the Evening Post regards the dealogue as outworn; but if it will turn to it and read the eighth and ninth commandments, it will see that bearing false witness is condemned as strongly as theft itself. To take but one instance out of the many in this article, the Evening Post says that it was Roosevelt who asked Harriman to come to the White House secretly, who took his money to buy votes in New York, and who afterwards wrote to 'My Dear Sherman'—yes, the same Sherman—reviling the capitalist to whom he had previously written, saying: 'You and I are practical men.' Not only is every important statement in this sentence false, but the writer who wrote it knew it was false. As far as I was concerned, every man visited the White House openly, and Mr. Harriman among the others. I took no money from Mr. Harriman or openly to buy votes or for any other purpose. Whoever wrote the article in the Evening Post in question knows that this was the fact, and basest lie when he wrote the sentence, for he quotes the same letter in which I had written to Mr. Harriman as follows: 'What I have to say to you can be said to you as well after election as before, but I would like to see you some time before my message.' I am now quoting without the letter before me, but the quotation is substantially, if not verbatim, correct. I am now quoting in this letter to Harriman of course on its face absolutely incompatible with any thought that I was asking money for campaign funds, for it is of course out of the question that I could tell him equally well what I had to say after election if I referred in any possible way to getting money before election. This is so clear that any pretense of misunderstanding is proof positive of the basest dishonesty of whoever wrote the article in question. As a matter of fact, when Mr. Harriman called it was to complain that the national committee would not turn over for the use of the state campaign in which he was interested funds to run that campaign, and to ask me to tell Cortelyou to give him aid for the state campaign. Mr. Cortelyou is familiar with the facts. In other words, the statement of the Evening Post is not only false and mendacious, but is in direct contradiction of the facts, but is such that it could only have been made by a man who, knowing the facts, deliberately intended to pervert them. Such an act stands on a level of infamy with the worst act ever performed by a corrupt member of the legislature or city official, and stamps the writer with the same moral brand that stamps the bribe-taker.

I have seen only a telegraphic abstract of the article, apparently containing quotations from it. Practically every statement made in these quotations is a falsehood.

To but one more shall I allude. The article speaks of my having attacked corporations, and referring directly to my Ohio speeches, of my having "sought to inflame the mob and make mischief." In those speeches the prime object was to show that mob violence as shown by the labor people who are engaged in controversy with a corporation. My statement was in fact that the duty of the state and the first duty of the officials was to put down disorder and to put down mob violence, and that after such action had been taken, then it was the duty of officials to investigate the corporation, and if it had done wrong to make it pay the penalty of its crime, and to provide against the wronging in the future. It is but another instance of the peculiar baseness, the peculiar moral obliquity, of the Evening Post that it should pervert the truth in so shameless a fashion.

Fine $400 Cote Piano Given Away!

In Your Home without One Cent Expense

By Conrad Sippel, The Cloverport Shoe Man

How it is Done

We have purchased a splendid Cote Piano like the illustration, manufactured by the Cote Piano Company, of Fall River, Mass., and will give this piano to the person or society securing the greatest value in certificates given with purchases made at this store. These certificates range in denomination from 5 cents to $10.00, and are given to customers in amounts equal to the amounts of their purchases. The piano will be given away June 30, 1911, and will cost the one receiving it absolutely nothing. We do this in order to show the citizens of this community our appreciation of their trade, and to induce new customers to trade here. There will be absolutely no advance in prices, in fact the prices on some lines will be lower than usual, because during this contest we will put on special sales of goods at reduced prices. We are going to make this contest interesting to everybody, and want all of our regular customers to bring their friends to the store. We want everybody to come in and examine the piano.

Of Interest to Everyone

All the people in this community should take an interest in this piano contest. The piano belongs to the public, and it is for the public to decide who shall receive it. It would be a splendid instrument for a school or Sunday-school. It would be a proud and imposing addition to any lodge room. There are also many young ladies who have musical ability, who are worthy of possessing this piano, but we do not wish to attempt to include all of the possible persons to whom the piano could be given, because we want the matter to be decided by the public.

Certificates Transferable

If you do not want to enter the contest yourself, you can transfer your certificates to any friend or any society in which

NOMINATION COUPON

CONRAD SIPPEL—I wish to nominate as a candidate in your Piano Contest

I understand this is merely a nomination, not a vote, and does not obligate me in any way.

you are interested. You are therefore in a position to do some one else a great deal of good by trading at this store.

Piano Guaranteed

The manufacturers guarantee this instrument for a long term of years. It is a large sized instrument, measuring 4 ft. 9 in. in height, 5 ft. 2 in. in length, and weighs boxed ready for shipment, over 800 lbs. The finest materials and most expensive workmanship have produced in the Cote, an instrument excellent in tone, power and appearance. The case design is very beautiful. This piano is installed in thousands of the best homes, conservatories, educational and religious institutions in the land, and is well and favorably recommended by leading public men, women, and institutions, musicians, teachers, and other excellent judges of musical instruments. Ask to see the portfolio containing these recommendations.

Nominate Someone

In order that everyone may have a chance to express his or her desire as to who should have the piano (regardless of whether or not they trade at our store), it is our desire that everybody make use of the nominating coupon to nominate the one of his or her choice, and send it to the store as soon as possible. We will keep a list of these nominations, but of course, unless the certificates, (which are given only to those who pay cash for goods) are secured and voted, the nomination will not effect the final disposition of the piano, but will merely show your preference and give others the same opportunity.

Who Will Get The Piano?

Remember the Piano is to be given away to someone, and you should participate in the decision as to who will receive it. Commence at once to collect certificates and you will advance not only your own interests but the interests of some friend or some society to which you belong. Remember

The Piano is Given Absolutely Free.

Don't Break Down.

Severe strains on the vital organs, like strains on machinery, cause break-downs. You can't over-tax stomach, liver, kidneys, bowels or nerves without serious danger to yourself. If you are weak or run-down, or under strain of any kind, take Electric Bitters the matchless, tonic medicine. Mrs. J. E. Van de Sunde, of Kirkland, Ill., writes: "That I did not break down, while enduring a most severe strain, for three months, is due wholly to Electric Bitters." Use them and enjoy health and strength. EVERY FARMER

As well as every business man should have a bank account.

WHY?

Because: Your money is safer in the bank than anywhere else. Paying your bills by check is the simplest and most convenient method. Your check becomes a voucher for the debt it pays. It gives you a better standing with business men. Money in the bank strengthens your credit. A bank account teaches, helps and encourages you to save. This bank does all the bookkeeping. Your bank book is a record of your business.

STORIES WRITTEN

While The Press Thunders

BY LOUISE

School opened Monday and the slates and pencils have been set to work now.

We are glad the little tots have two new rooms to make them more comfortable. We sincerely trust that this will be the best year of their training and that they will not be interrupted in any way from their school duties. A few children have interests outside of school that detract their minds from study; one is that "soap business." Several of the small girls last year ran the streets continually after school hours and between sessions, taking orders for soap. It was not at all necessary and it was a source of annoyance to their friends. These children have parents who provide for them well, and it is surprising they are permitted to tramp the streets to sell soap. There is no disgrace in peddling soap, but there is a humiliation about it that a child should not be allowed to suffer. If there were a fortune in soap peddling or needed bread and meat and clothing for the child who does it, the matter would be different. But there is nothing in the soap business for the little girl except a cheap premium and disappointments from those who do not take orders. If a family must peddle soap to "keep up," may the father or mother do it and may the little girl be kept busy at home until they are old enough for the business world.

Clara Dyer was our guest from Saturday until Monday morning, when she left for Wilmore, Kentucky to accept a position with Ashbury College. She arrived here from Philpot, the home of her brother and sister, Dr. and Mrs. Harris, where she had been visiting.

Oberammergau is a unique place.

The homes there are quaint as can be. On the outside of them are large pictures painted in panels, and the interior of all the houses are all so pretty and curious.

Listening to Clara tell about her experiences, her earnest work and her pleasant diversions, kept one spell-bound, but made us feel Europe is not so far away as we thought when we were at school together, studying the "big geography."

AUNTIE'S PIE.

(President Taft traveled seventy-five miles to cut some of his Aunt Della's pie.)

He spoke as never before he spoke.

Time flew in a twinkling.

Yet still he was on the fly.

Down some great road to the state

Compt this record breaking gait?

Why, no! He simply has a date

With some of Auntie's pie.

His haughty nostrils now distend;

He gives a happy cry.

Thanks for away his journey's end.

Sweet odors bring it nigh.

Yea, though he still must travel much.

His boyhood memory compiles

A catalogue of all the styles

Of dear old Auntie's pie.

The mince, the apple (green, not dried).

Such as no gold can buy;

Squash, lemon, cranberry, beside

The peach's sweet supply.

His fancy sees the pumpkin come

And, though his wheels are still shum.

He chuckles: "Yum! Just pass me

some.

Dear Auntie, of that pie!"

His tariff may not touch the heart.

But when his face we spy

Half hidden by a damson tart

We smile and say to each other

For, viewing that first citizen

We of the titled wearied men

Are happy, hungry boys again.

All facing Auntie's pie.

REMAINS OF CULTURED

NEGRO EMPIRES FOUND.

Runic Signs Found in Unknown Ruins

in Sudan.

That powerful negro empires of great size and some culture existed in the Sudan before the white races entered Africa is the conviction of a

French scholar, M. Zeltner, who reports in La Nature on the results of his archaeological investigations in the basins of the rivers Niger and Senegal.

Within a triangle formed by the towns of Timbuktu, Kayes and Ba-mahe he located fifty-two archaeological deposits, consisting of ruins of unknown cities.

M. Zeltner's most interesting finds were made in caves on the upper Senegal. Here an abundance of runic signs and drawings was found traced on rocks. They were similar in character to those discovered in South African caverns. The writings have some resemblance to those signs found on ancient ruins farther eastward in the Sahara desert and are believed by M. Zeltner to be related to the present Turan alphabet.

The discoveries made have yet to be thoroughly studied. M. Zeltner thinks that the archaeological exploration of the African continent is yet in its infancy and will doubtless yield surprising results in establishing the advanced state of development attained

by the black races in early times.

Ticking the Debtors.

John Barrett was only twenty-seven years old when President Cleveland appointed him minister to Siam. The first important task which confronted the youthful envoy was to press a claim against the Siamese government for $1,000,000. Experienced ambassadors warned him against using threats

in obtaining the money. "Be cunning;

avoid arrogance," they said.

"That is," responded Mr. Barrett,

"you favor ticking with a straw to pricking with a bayonet."

The statesman nodded assent.

When the young minister had finally succeeded in collecting the claim the ambassadors asked in astonishment,

"How did you accomplish it?"

"By ticking," explained Barrett. "I had to tickle them almost to death,

though, before they agreed to pay it."

BIG CONTRAST IN METHODS

Difference in Way American and Canadian Authorities Deal With the Indians.

A recently issued book on "The Riders of the Plains," an account of the northwest mounted police of Canada, published in London, gives a number of instances showing the difference between the Canadian and the United States' methods of treating the Indians. One of these is to the effect that a number of Canadian Indians, who had been concerned in the half-breed rebellion of many years ago, fled over the border to the states. These most undesirable immigrants, who had been concerned in the half-breed rebellion of many years ago, fled over the border to the states. These most undesirable immigrants, who had been concerned in the half-breed rebellion of many years ago, fled over the border to the states.

In due course 200 very dissatisfied and wild-eyed Cree, with 450 horses, were rounded up and started northward, with a strong force of United States cavalry in attendance. They were met at the boundary by three mounted policemen, one corporal and two troopers.

The American commanding officer looked at them with a surprised air. "Where's your escort for these Indians?" he asked.

"We're here," answered the corporal. "Yes, yes, I see. But where's your regiment?"

"I guess it's here, all right," said the corporal. "The other fellow's looking after the breakfast things."

"But are there only four of you, then?"

"That's so, colonel; but you see, we wear the queen's scarlet."

And these four redcoats were all that were necessary to take these 200 Indians, their horses and belongings a distance of more than one hundred miles into Canadian territory, where they could bother the United States no more.

MAKE YOUR RAG RUGS.

Designs Simple or Elaborate as You Please.

Would you like to have a unique rag rug? If so save your scraps and bits of woolen materials to make one.

The term rag carpet or rug to most of us is intimately associated with the old fashioned kitchen, and to our mind's eye immediately comes the vision of a comfortable room with rows of shinning pots and pans, the plaid rug and easy old rocking chair before the fire. Though formerly relegated to this humble position, today we see in our best shops floor coverings of quaint design fashioned of rags.

With the craze for old fashioned furniture comes the demand for the rag rug. It is even seen made of silk in lady's boudoir and living room. To fashion this particular kind of rug one should begin as follows: First decide upon the size. The foundation is of burlap. Stretch this upon a frame constructed of four pieces of lath. Draw with a piece of chalk your design, which should be as accurate as possible. When this satisfactory trace over the lines with blue ink to make them permanent.

side. The needle is passed through the loop from the upper side and the loop drawn through. Repeat this until the strip is used up, then begin on a fresh one.

The loops should be drawn through as closely as possible. When the rug is finished all loose ends should be carefully trimmed off.

The illustration will serve as a guide. These rugs have great possibilities, though fashioned in this homely way. The design may be simple or more elaborate, as one chooses. Indian designs lend themselves very readily to

Recipes For Sweet Fritters

Peach Fritters.—Cut the peaches in quarters, remove the skins, sprinkle with a little lemon juice and powdered sugar and put aside for an hour. Beat two eggs, add one-half of a saltspoonful of salt, a tablespoonful of melted butter and one-half of a teaspoonful of milk. Sift in enough flour to make a thin batter and add one-quarter of a teaspoonful of baking powder. Dip each piece of fruit into the batter, fry in hot fat, drain and dust with sugar.

Pump Fritters.—Remove the skin from some ripe pumpkins and cut them in to halves; sprinkle with sugar. Put five tablespoonfuls of flour into a bowl, add the yolks of two eggs, a dessert spoonful of salad oil, salt, one-half of a teaspoonful of milk; beat until smooth and fold in the fothed whites of the eggs. Dip each piece of fruit in the batter and fry in boiling lard; dust with sugar and serve.

Fruit Fritters.—Take small state sponge cakes, cut them in halves, spread a thick layer of raspberry jam between them and press firmly together. Dip each cake in fritter batter and brown in boiling lard. Dust in sugar and serve with vanilla sauce.

Hot Bread Theory Exploded.

In the bulletin recently issued by the federal department of agriculture on bread and breadmaking the old theory about the unwholesomeness of hot breads is, at least in part, discarded, so that those who for years have been foregoing this toothsome delicacy may in the future eat and be glad.

That is, they may eat hot biscuit and other small crusty breads, but should be a little wary of hot bread taken from the middle of a large loaf.

The reason for this is simple. In the smaller breads there is sufficient crust, so that the bread is thoroughly evaporated and is kept from forming into a solid mass, which is not easily digested. If the proportion of crust is small the soft inner crumb is more easily compressed into a solid mass.

The cruetier the better, then, for small biscuits and rolls, as this necessitates thorough chewing.

WAR ON HAT SALUTES.

Darmstadt Society Says It's French and Unpatriotic.

"Why raise your hat?" is the motto of the Society for the Promotion of German. Moins of Greeting, whose headquarters are at Darmstadt. It is a waterfist hall, the society argues, because it wears out the hat trim. It is unwholesome because in bad weather it is apt to bring on colds. And, worst of all, it is unpatriotic, for the custom was adopted from the French, the first nation in Europe to have the head as a form of politeness.

The true mode of greeting for Germans, the members say, is the military salute, which is of purely Teuton origin, having originated among the officers of the Prussian grenadiers.

The society has gained many adherents, and the inhabitants of Darmstadt are now accustomed to see elderly civilians stand rigidly at attention and bring the hand smartly to the forehead when they meet acquaintances in the street.

COUNTY CLEARS 40 YEARS' DEBT

Illinois' Famous $1,500,000 "White Elephant" Paid For.

COURTHOUSE BEGUN IN 1867

Macopin's Officers Built More Extravagantly Than They Anticipated, Though Without Graft, and Two Generations Have Worked to Burn the Last Bills.

Residents of Macopin county, Ill., had two independence days recently at Carlinville, the county capital, when the last bond of indebtedness of what is probably the most famous courthouse in the United States was burned.

For over forty years a debt large enough to stagger some states has been hanging over the heads of the taxpayers. The amount of bonds and interest bearing orders issued by the county court in the construction of a fine courthouse was about $1,400,000, but the cost of litigation plus interest added a large amount to the original sum.

In some respects the courthouse at Carlinville is a mystery. Just why such a fine building was built has never been fully explained. There are two reasons given by friends and commissioners who had charge of the construction.

One of these is that county pride prompted the construction of the building. It is claimed that the commissioners never expected to erect such a fine structure, but overreached their plans. The second excuse is that a building of the kind would prevent the county from ever being divided and the capital removed from Carlinville.

Building started in 1867. It was at the March term of the county court in 1867 that an order was issued for the construction of the new building.

T. L. Loomis was appointed county agent to close and sign all contracts made by the commissioners. During the summer and autumn of 1867 the work of excavating for the foundation and getting the building under headway progressed rapidly.

The Carlinville citizens were surprised at the scope of the plans, but their shock was mild in comparison with that of large landholders, who expressed their indignation when they went to town. The first report made by Loomis showed a total expense of $492,453. A year later this had grown to $440,094.67, and the building was only a skeleton of the completed structure. A total of the expenditures for 1869 was $858,540.77.

At last the building, with its splendid dome towering skyward, was ready for occupancy. And then the troubles of the taxpayers really began. It seemed for several years that the debt would be the ruin of the county. There were lawsuits, then indignation meetings of taxpayers.

A majority of the board of supervisors was fired for contempt of the federal court for refusing to make a levy to start the payment of the bonds and orders. The supervisors calmly voted to make the county pay their fines and went ahead with their other duties.

"Macopin's big white elephant" was the term used by many in expressing their disapproval of the courthouse.

County Pride Triumphs. But at last a majority of the substantial citizens realized that an injury to the county debt would forever blight the development of the county's resources and voted to effect a compromise and pay off the bonds and orders. This was made possible by a special act passed by the state assembly.

ADVANTAGES OF GOOD ROADS

Enhance Farm Land Values, Says William Sulzer.

BENEFIT TO EVERY SECTION.

Add Untold Wealth to Both the Producer and Consumer, Says the New York Congressman—Great Value of Bad and Improved Highways Contrasted.

Congressman William Sulzer of New York, presiding officer of the recent national good roads congress, held at Niagara Falls, spoke on various aspects of the national prosperity. In part he said:

"For years I have been an earnest advocate of good road building. Good roads mean progress and a great benefit to the people who live in the cities, an advantage to the people who live in the country, and they help every section of our vast country."

"Good roads, like good streets, make every habitation along them most desirable. They enhance the value of farm lands, facilitate transportation and add untold wealth to the producers and consumers of the country; they are the milestones marking the advance of civilization; they save time, give labor a lift and make millions in money; they save wear and tear and worry and waste; they beautify the country, bring it in touch with the city; they aid the social and the religious and the educational and the industrial progress of the people; they make better homes and happier hearth-sides; they are the avenues of trade, the highways of commerce, the mail routes of information and the agencies of speedy information; they mean the economical transportation of marketable products—the maximum burden at the minimum cost; they are the ligaments that bind the country together in thrift and industry and intelligence and patriotism; they promote social intercourse, prevent local stagnation and increase the happiness and the prosperity of our producing masses; they contribute to the glory of the country, give momentum to our life work, distribute the necessities of life—the products of the fields and the forests and the factories—encourage the farmer, the handier, facilitate love for our scenic wonders and make mankind better and greater and grander."

"One of the greatest needs in this country, especially in the south and the west, is better roads. The establishment of good roads would in a great measure solve the question of the high price of the necessities of life and the increasing cost of living which is beginning to make life a struggle for existence. By reducing the cost of transportation it would enable the farmer to market his produce at a lower price and at a larger profit at the same time. It would bring communities closer and in touch with the centers of population, thereby facilitating the commerce of ideas as well as of material products."

"Good roads have a money value far beyond our ordinary conception; bad roads constitute our greatest drawback to internal development and material progress. Good roads mean prosperous farmers; bad roads mean abandoned farms, sparsely settled territory, districts of poverty and isolated cities, where the poor are destined to become poorer. Good roads mean more cultivated farms and cheaper food products for the people in the towns; bad roads mean poor transportation, lack of communication, high prices for the necessities of life, the loss of untold millions of wealth and idle workmen seeking employment. Good roads will help those who cultivate the soil and feed the multitude, and whatever aids the producers and the farmers of our country will increase our wealth and benefit all the people. We cannot destroy our farms without first decay."

"The burdens of life fall hardest on the farmer. The least the government can do for him is to help him get decent highways. I am with the farmers in this fight for good roads. I am with the rural districts of our land in their struggle for better transportation facilities, and in congressional action I shall do all in my power to hasten the consummation they desire—the ability to go and come along decent roads without exhausting the time and the effort and the utility of man and beast."

"The fathers of the republic wisely recognized the importance of this question. Washington and Jefferson advocated good roads and projected the construction of a great highway from the capital to the Mississippi valley. The far-seeing statesmen of the early days of our national existence championed and passed measures to better the means of transportation. They knew that of all human agencies the one which has done most for humanity and civilization has been the building of good roads—the abridgment of distance in the facility of communication. They realized the necessity of good roads—how important they were to the country, to its growth and development and to mankind, morally, intellectually and industrially, removing stations and provincial isolation and knitting together in bonds of fraternity all the branches of the great republic."

It Saved My Leg.

"All thought I'd lose my leg," writes J. A. Sweeney, of Westmore, Wis., "Ten years of eczema, that is doctors could not cure, had at last laid me up. Then Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured it, sound and well." Infallible for Skin Eruptions, Eczema, Salt Rheum, Boils, Fever Sores, Burns, Scalds, Cuts and Piles. 25 cents at Severs Drug Store.

IS THE HOME A FAILURE?

The American Man is Too Busy to Enjoy the Company of Family Life.

The failure of the home in this busy, driving country, is one of the startling counts in the indictment brought against the American woman, in a current publication by Rev. Dwight Hillis. Nor does he let the American man escape. He pictures the well-to-do Englishman deliberately breakfasting at home and strolling to his business at ten o'clock, and home again in time for afternoon tea. The American is too busy for family life. A hasty breakfast, behind the morning paper, a rush all day, up to the very edge of the evening dinner, "leave him too weary and exhausted to enter or create another atmosphere." Husband and wife go different ways. "The wife, heart-hungry, absorbs herself with charity, club-life or society. If she is weak and meets temptation, a tragedy ensues. The average American woman, Alings, long after she has ceased to receive encouragement in so doing, to the old ideal she saw in the husband, 'hoping that some day he will come giving her things and give himself.' Even the Frenchman is a better family man; and every traveler testifies to the keen relief with which, in public pleasures, the French husband shares the simplest amusements of his family. It is the families of almost any other blood than American, those of the Hebrews best of all, who show us what holidays at home may be. We are neglecting, it seems, the best saving influence of all, in what Gladstone called 'this fallen and disordered world,' to mitigate 'the principle of personal selfishness' and sustain the fabric of society."

Don't think that piles can't be cured. Thousands of obstinate cases have been cured by Doan's Ointment. 50 cents at any drug store.

Writ Was Not Served.

A ludicrous incident occurred when Carter, the lion king, as he was called, was exhibiting with Durcor, at London. A manager with whom Carter had made and broken an engagement, issued a writ against him. The bailiffs came up to the stage door and asked for Carter. "Show the gentlemen up," said Durcor, and when they reached the stage there sat Carter composedly in the great cage, with an enormous lion on each side of him. "There's Mr. Carter, waiting for you, gentlemen," said Durcor. "Go in and take him. Carter, my boy, open the door."

Carter proceeded to obey, at the same time eliciting by a private signal a tremendous roar from his companions. The bailiffs staggered back in terror, rolled over each other as they rushed to the cage, and nearly fainted before they reached the street.

"Generally debilitated for years. Had sick headache, lacked ambition, was worn out and all ran down. Burdock Bitters made me a well woman."

—Mrs. Chas. Freiloy, Moosup, Conn.

Two of a Kind.

The old farmer stopped his saythe and unbent. "Then he hailed his wife, 'I thought 'Manda' was 'goin' to help you with th' cookin' today,' he cried. "'Manda's gone over to Sallie Bease-ly's," was the reply. "They're havin' a garden fete for the friends of the 'friend from Tewksbury.' She passed and looked around. "'Want 'Henry' go to help you with th' mowin'?" "Henry's gone over to Tom's to play golf with th' new minister."

They looked at each other. "Two silly old fools," muttered the farmer.

"Yes, Albin," the woman meekly agreed. And he went on with his lonely mowing and she returned to the quiet bus with her basket of eggs.

Do You Get Up With a Lame Back?

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable. Almost everyone knows of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Rock, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, because of its remarkable health restoring properties. Swamp-Rock fulfills almost every wish in overcoming rheumatism, pain in the back, kidney, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing, and of bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, or overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night.

Swamp-Rock is not recommended for everything but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble, it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been thoroughly tested in private practice, and has proved so successful that a special arrangement has been made by which all who use this paper, who have not already used Swamp-Rock, may have a bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Rock, and how to find out if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble. When writing mention this generous offer, and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. The regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles are sold by all druggists. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Rock, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Rock, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

JAPAN A LAND OF POETS

Whole Country Is Fairyland and Constant Inspiration to Most Poetic Mind.

Japan is a land of poets, and those who are so fortunate as to live in view of Fuji have every reason for writing verse. Yet not Fuji only—the whole country is a fairyland and a constant inspiration to the most poetic mind. We have only to recall the Festival of Lanterns, the festival on which the souls of the departed come back for a few hours to wander in their old haunts, along the winding road, by a little flower-colored cascade or over a bridge drooping with lavender wataria to realize how much nature means to Japan. Poets to the west it all seems very primitive, very far from a lasting and inspiring truth that shall nourish the soul for all time. I know from experience that this inborn, love of nature—an old love it is—has had much to do with the present position of the Japanese. One does not expect to find poetry on the battlefield, but in the late Russo-Japanese war it is touching to find that dying soldiers asked that their comrades should bring the flowers, and looking on their wonderful blossoms, the brave fellows passed away. This was not in the quiet seclusion of a hospital, but on the battlefield, shaking with the thunder of guns, the shouting of commands, and the clear note of a trumpet call. —H. H. Davis, in London T. P.'s Weekly.

Arabs and Alcohol.

"The discovery of brandy goes back to the dawn of history. Wine was drunk age after age since Noah, without the least suspicion being entertained that it was possible to separate from it the spirit or alcoholic portion which gives wine its intoxicating powers. The Arabs having taught the art of distillation, which they had invented to extract the perfume of flowers—the rose especially—soon lauded in their writings. Armand Villeneuve was first to experiment with wine after the Arabian method, trying to find what gave wine its special flavor and effect. He discovered alcohol, and, being white human, of course, began working some sort of skin game on the public, selling a way to make a barrel of wine with 50 cents' worth of 'wine extract,' or liquid gold."

The Lance in War.

The lance as a cavalry weapon has justified its existence, military experts agree, in the South African and the Russo-Japanese war, in spite of those who declared the arm as old-fashioned and cumbersome. The German military authorities still believe in shock tactics and the cavalry charge, and under these circumstances the lance in the Prussian Uhlan's hands remains a formidable weapon.

Experience, however, has also shown that the lance point, which makes too deep wounds for the shaft to be withdrawn quickly, and so the lancer runs the risk of having it wedged from his grasp in the charge. The cavalry regiments stationed at Brunswick and Strasburg are experimenting with a new kind of lance which carries a ball below the base of the lancehead, preventing it from penetrating further. It is said that the new arm is just as effective in disabling an enemy and is free from other disadvantages. It will probably be adopted by all the German lancer regiments.

The Bank of Hardinsburg & Trust Co. is according to each teacher in the county a copy of the poem, "The Man who wins" ready for hanging in school rooms. Its five stanzas should be committed to memory by every boy and girl in the county. Such sentences as "The man who wins is the man who does," and "The man who does is he who talks, who fumbles and fozzles and trifles and balks, who wouldn't do anything to-day, that he can put off in the same old way," should be the thoughts of all who are making ready for a successful life.

Many ice cream suppers are being given all over the county for the benefit of school libraries. There were seven last Saturday night and nine the Saturday before. Westview will give one next Saturday night.

School opened Monday with a large enrollment. Several parents were present and enthusiastic speeches were made by them and other friends of the school. Everybody seems determined to make this the best year in the history of Hardinsburg's educational effort. The new principal, Prof. R. Y. Masie, made a splendid impression. The organization was completed and lesson assignments made for the work, which properly began yesterday. At a teacher's meeting it was agreed that all teachers be in their rooms not later than eight o'clock each morning; that school would open promptly at 8:15; and that each late pupil would remain after school and work four times as many minutes as he was late. Notwithstanding there is one teacher more than at any previous year, the force is the busiest of their lives in finding sufficient time for their classes.

John Hook has moved to his property near the fair grounds. The house which he vacated at the end of Louisville street, is now the property of M. P. Such improvements will be made as will make it one of the most desirable dwellings on this popular residence street.

The Hon. John P. Haswell has been successful in getting an extension of our mail accommodations. The evening train to Fordville is now carrying from Hardinsburg a closed pouch of mail which it will take back to Irvington in the night. This mail will be carried into Louisville on the 6 o'clock through train from St. Louis. Thus our mail deposited up to 7:30 p. m., will be in Louisville at 8 the next morning.

Brackenridge County Republicans Saturday instructed for County Attorney Jesse Eskridge for Republican Congressional nominee at the Lebanon convention. Mr. Eskridge appreciates the honor and could easily be the nominee of his party, did he seek the place. This honor, however, is rather an empty one, for nobody in the Fourth could hope to make a successful race against the invincible Ben Johnson; besides, the district is safely Democratic.

Hardinsburg went over to Leitchfield Saturday and won over the county seat Graysonites in a game of base ball by a score of 9 to 3.
